

Listings of Custom-Exempt Meat and Seasonal Deer Processing Facilities in Tennessee

Megan Bruch Leffew, Marketing Specialist
Rob Holland, Director

This information sheet contains lists of custom-exempt meat processing facilities (Table 1) and seasonal deer processing only facilities (Table 2) permitted by the Tennessee Department of Agriculture, Consumer and Industry Services as of November 15, 2017.² Custom-exempt meat processing facilities are permitted to harvest and process livestock for owners of animals. Some of these facilities may also process deer for hunters. Seasonal deer processing facilities are only permitted to process deer and are not allowed to harvest and process livestock. Meat from custom-exempt and deer-only processors cannot be sold.

Custom-exempt meat processing can only be conducted for livestock owners. Meat harvested and processed is exclusively for use by the owner(s) and for their non-paying family, guests and employees. Table 1 may be helpful to farmers offering live animals for sale to consumers who may then, as the owner(s) of an animal, have it harvested and processed in a custom-exempt facility.

Processing of livestock for meat to be offered for sale must be conducted in a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) inspected facility under USDA inspection. Some processing facilities may be credentialed for both custom-exempt and USDA-inspected slaughter. This list does not indicate whether or not a plant is also USDA-inspected.

Processing facilities are listed by region and county. Regions are divided as indicated in the map below. A map of Tennessee custom-exempt processing facilities is provided on page 4. The number on the map marker for each location corresponds with the ID number in the table listing.

¹ This fact sheet updates and expands on information presented in CPA Info #171, March 2010. CPA Info 288 was published in November 2017 and was revised in February 2018.

² The authors extend thanks to Mike Brown, Outreach Coordinator for TDA Consumer and Industry Services, for providing a current list of permitted facilities.
